SAFETY PLAN FOR CONTACT WITH MINOR(S) (Biological minors or offender is married to mother or father of minors)

I. Overview

Given the potential risks present when dealing with sexual abuse, the issues of contact, family preservation and reunification efforts must be carefully investigated and planned. The key components in any plan must include:

- The requested supervised contact is in the best interest of the minor child(ren) and other family members, and that no one objects to the offender having contact.
- The contact is gradual and deliberate.
- The contact is flexible and responsive to the needs and concerns of the family and provides for the safety of minor children.
- The contact is collaborative in nature.

II. Offender Responsibility

The offender demonstrates accountability for their actions, and will demonstrate behaviors that ensure the prevention of further victimization of others and provide for the safety of all children present.

- The offender agrees to impose the "Three Second Rule" when any minor makes direct contact with them in any setting. The three second rule states that they will disengage from the direct contact with the minor(s) in a timely manner to establish and maintain a safe, healthy, positive and appropriate personal space boundary.
- The offender accepts that if any adult or child does not want them present at an event they will leave immediately without further incident.
- The offender recognizes and agrees that this contact with minor children is a privilege of their adult probation/parole supervision and not a right which they have.
- The offender will not attend any event where their victim(s) are present without the specific approval of their supervising officer, written consent from the victim requesting the contact when the victim is an adult and written consent from parents when the victim is still a minor child.
- Any unauthorized contact could result in sanctions or discipline including a report being filed with the court or BOP.
